

Potatoes

Not all potatoes are the same

Our potato products are outstanding in taste and quality and are in great demand in the industry. There are good reasons for this: Thanks to many years of cooperation with regional producer groups, we can influence production right from the planting stage. At your request, for example, we can take into account different potato varieties, the use of pesticides and other specifications. If necessary, this even means traceability back to the field. Our gentle processing methods and consistently high standards in our own drying and processing plant have earned us the reputation of true potato specialists. Trust in our experience — trust in Brückner.
